You might be right where you should be! That doesn't mean your world won't be rocked.

Shepherds

The things we discover and learn when our world rocks may not be immediately understood or embraced by those around us.

Our primary response is to God – and to worship Him for His work.

Note that when the world-rocking is over, the shepherds are back to business as usual. They are out in the fields.

They returned ...

... but they are not the same people.

A rocking world may not end up changing a lot in the flow of your daily life – you just won't be the same, or do it the same.
